Special Instructions:

COLLECTING HORSE HAIR

Cut a minimum of 14 inches for a bracelet and a minimum of 10 inches for earrings, although longer is better. Cut several small locks from the underside of the tail to make a clump of hair about the width of your finger. Secure horse hair with a rubber band and place it in a bag. I will clean the hair before braiding. Mane hair can be used and will incur an additional $20 fee per item.

SIZING

Wrap a seamstress measuring tape or length of string around your wrist to measure your actual wrist size. Then hold the tape measure around your wrist as loose as you'd like the bracelet and record that size, as well.

Average women's bracelet: 7" – 7 1/4"

Average men's bracelet: 8 1/2" – 8 3/4"

RAPITORIAL

$95

Shiny and black. That defined Rapitorial, a gorgeous mare from Florida, who taught me much about securely closing gates.

It seems only appropriate her namesake has a shiny, stainless steel ID plaque and very secure push-button clasp. The front and back of the plaque are engraveable in the fonts at below. The price of the bracelet includes up to 5 words engraved on the nameplate. Additional words cost $4 each. Unlimited words.

HORSE HAIR JEWELRY CARE

Remove horse hair jewelry before swimming. Occasionally a piece of horse hair will work its way out of the braid. Use a nail clipper to trim it off close to the braid. DO NOT use a scissors as you may accidentally snip through the bracelet.

GARDEN GALA BRACELET

$51 - $68

Garden Gala was the matriarch of the horse farm where I worked. This is the mother of all my horse hair jewelry, the first style I created.

The flat braid is secured with one of three sterling silver closures: hook and loop, lobster or square lobster. Beads can be added to the braid for an additional $15.

MAXATAWNY BRACELET

$82

Granddaughter of Garden Gala, Maxatawny was another favorite and mother of many on the farm. This bracelet combines my favorite wares: sterling silver, leather and horse hair.

Horse hair and sterling silver wire roll around Greek leather (available in many colors). Leather knot slides through loop for closure. Wear the leather side out for a rustic look or wear the horse hair side out for a classic appearance.

LEAP YEAR BRACELET

$70

A giant of a horse, Leap Year was the first real horse my daughter rode. Only 2 years old at the time, my daughter looked tiny upon Leap Year's back, but her smile was enormous.

The Leap Year bracelet is a round braid of horse hair, plaited around a leather core and secured with a sterling silver lobster clasp. The example is braided with horse hair that has been dyed red.

DAISY EARRINGS

$67

These earrings are named after a sweet little paint named Daisy. She was a little bit of brown and a little bit of white.

These earrings are a bit of this and that, too: a bit of glossy horse hair, a touch of shiny sterling and a dash of gemstone. Pick a gemstone to dangle in the horse hair loop: chalcedony (shown), turquoise, amethyst, garnet, citrine or peridot. Or send me your favorite pair of beads to include. Choose from fishhook ear wires (shown) or lever back earrings.
